

I disagree with digital copy protection based on so flimsy a premise. It is bound to be broken. You'll be punishing the masses of honest television users while criminals will be able to easily get at the raw data. Stop the propagation of DCMA protected weak encryption.